Founder & President, Jibbio.com

In part to his upbringing, Mark today is a successful, socially responsible entrepreneur who has been fortunate to experience over 20 years of business excellence in highly competitive internet, telecommunications, and international trading vertical markets.

Mark was born in Toronto, Canada and raised in a household with unique facets- a mother who had once been crowned “Miss South Korea” (beauty pageant), a father who had been a Captain in the South Korean military (army), and an older brother with special needs (autism). Mark was the younger brother by age, but older brother by role.

Despite the day-to-day challenges, and then losing his mother to cancer when he was 21, Mark feels blessed to have had three dynamic pillars to instill the following positive attributes that would mold his character into the admirable person that he is today.

Mother

Don't compete with others, just be yourself
Have a generous heart and encourage others
Set goals, and walk in confidence

Father

Be disciplined, organized and regimented
Persevere, be resilient, and never quit
Be honest, professional, and respectful

Brother

Be compassionate and empathetic
Support, motivate, and be patient
Communicate and be flexible to change

In addition to Mark's inherit values; success has been achieved due to his positively enthusiastic, sociably likeable, business savvy professionalism. Furthermore, he is strategically innovative, distinctly articulate, and consistently effective in his endeavors.

Mark is community-driven, and enjoys volunteering weekly at the Daily Bread Food Bank, along with his brother.

As of June 11, 2020, Mark achieved his second milestone of completing 150 consecutive weeks at the Daily Bread Food Bank.
